EXECUTIVE CHEF

Sara Moulton

Sara Moulton is one of the most trusted names in the food biz.

Among the earliest of the Food Network's founding personalities, Sara hosted "Cooking Live," "Cooking Live Primetime," and "Sara's Secrets" between 1996 and 2005. She's been Food Editor of ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" since 1997, and hosted "Sara's Weeknight Meals" for public television in 2008. The executive chef of Gourmet magazine from 1987 until the magazine folded in October of 2009, Sara is also the author of Sara's Secrets for Weeknight Meals, Sara Moulton Cooks at Home and Sara's Everyday Family Dinners.

Sara's credibility rests on her expertise and experience. She graduated with high honors from the Culinary Institute of America in 1977, spent seven years working in restaurants in New York and Boston, and taught at Peter Kump's New York Cooking School (now known as The Institute of Culinary Education). Her interest in food television was sparked in 1979, when she began working behind the scenes with Julia Child, who became her mentor, on public television's "Julia Child and More Company".

In 1982 Sara co-founded the New York Women's Culinary Alliance, an "old girls network" for women in the culinary industry.
